☞ Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN'S present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

For Publishing by Subscription,

A Biography of the Signers

OF THE

Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontis piece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

The squadron under the command of Commodore Morris, consisting of the frigates Constellation, Capt. J. B. On the 13th and 14th October, a violent hurricane was felt in the Windward Islands, equally as destructive to Barbadoes, Grenada, and St. Lucie, &c. as the September gale was to St. Thomas and St. Barts—accounts had reached St. Thomas of the ravages occasioned to the shipping and plantations in those places. Nothing was felt at St. Thomas of the last gale, but the swelling of the sea indicated a very violent blow at no great distance. The weather during the latter part of October to the middle of November, has been so smoky and thick at sea, that it was with difficulty the sun could be seen—the smoke of wood could be distinctly smelt, and at times quantities of dead fishes were observed floating on the water. CENSUS OF NEW-YORK.

We have received the official return of the census taken by order of the corporation ; from which it appears, that there are one hundred and nineteen thousand, six hundred and fifty-seven inhabitants in the ten wards of this city ; giving an increase within three years of 19,038. In this census there are 46,783 males, 51,187 females, 6,560 male aliens, 5,204 female aliens, 3,844 male coloured people, 5,829 females of colour, 95 male slaves, 155 female slaves. And it appears, that in three years, there has been a decrease in slaves to the number of 367.—We are of opinion, that the total number exceeds 120,000, and that the city rapidly increases. [*Nat. MORE PIRACY.

The sloop Superior, capt. Barnes, hence, from St. Jago, was fallen in with and captured off Cape Maize, by a piratical schooner of about 50 tons, armed with muskets, pistols and case knives, but no cannon. After abusing captain Barnes and his crew—threatening to murder them, robbing the captain of his watch, &c. they forced them into an old leaky boat without any clothing but what they had on, and scarcely any sustenance. In this situation they turned them adrift, and bore away with their prize, supposed for Hayti. Capt. B. reached St. Jago in four days, after much fatigue, and took passage in a French brig now below. The Superior we are informed is insured at New-York. [Phil. Gaz.

Several of the papers of this town have published a part of the proclamation of the governor of the islands of St Christopher's, Nevis, Angilla and the Virgin islands, for opening the ports of the last named islands, as noticed in our paper of Monday, and have erroneously applied it to the ports of all the above named islands. This is incorrect, as the proclamation very clearly does not remove the prohibition from the islands of St. Christopher, Nevis and Angilla ; and these islands are of much more importance than the barren and almost desert cluster called the Virgin Islands. The error is of some importance as it might lead some of our shippers into difficulty in seeking a market for their produce at a prohibited port, where the hopes of a great profit must be disappointed by the confiscation of their cargoes.

LAW CASE.

At the late court of quarter sessions for Tioga county, Butler B. Amos was indicted for malicious mischief. In the course of his trial, it proved that he had threatened vengeance on a Mr. Mathers (for some cause not stated) who is since dead. About six months after his death, several cattle, lately the property of the deceased, were stabbed, whereby some of them died. It was in evidence that Amos said "they should not have a hoof of cattle left by Christmas," and that he had offered one young man five and another fifty dollars, to seduce the daughter of the deceased.

The charge laid in the indictment, was supported by a train of concurrent circumstances, that fixed the crime of Amos beyond a possibility of doubt. The jury had no hesitation in returning a verdict of guilty. The council for the defendant then moved an arrest of judgment, on the ground that the indictment should not have concluded "contrary to law," but "contra formam statuti." The prosecutor for the commonwealth contended that as there was no act of assembly against malicious mischief, except for trifling offences, the English statutes formed the necessary law, upon which to predicate such indictment ; that it would be novel in Pennsylvania, to conclude an indictment ; "contrary to acts of parliament," those acts having been incorporated at or after the declaration of independence became the law of the land.

As a case of this kind has very seldom occurred in the courts of this commonwealth, it was a matter of serious doubt to the associate judges, (the president being absent) whether the indictment, as laid, was agreeable to law. But, after taking some time to consider, they overruled the motion and sentenced the prisoner to pay a fine of fifty dollars, and to be imprisoned one year in the county jail.

DUEL.

A letter from Philadelphia of the 15th inst. says, "Mr Harris, late Consul at St Petersburg, was yesterday wounded in a duel with Mr. Lewis, who lately returned from Russia. The ball of Mr. L. passed through the thigh of Mr. H. grazing the bone a little below the hip."

LIBERTY—EQUALITY.

Republic of Hayti.

Jean Pierre Boyer, President of Hayti.

To Mr. ——, merchant, New-York—

I have received sir with the liveliest satisfaction, your obliging letter of the 19th of the 6th month of the present year, enclosing an excellent treatise on objections to the use of prize goods, which has been translated and published in the Official Gazette of the government, as you will perceive by a No. accompanying this letter. Your principles sir, are those of the friend of man, and since you are desirous of being useful to that class of the unfortunate descendants of Africans, who groan under oppression, they will know how to evince their gratitude to you as well as to the members of your honorable society. Persevere, therefore in your efforts, and assist with your counsel those unfortunate persons, who were under the necessity of seeking an asylum in a country like this, where all men are free and equal in the eye of the law. If the emigration of the people of color, which it appears to be your wish in the United States, should direct towards Africa, were to be turned towards this Republic, great benefit would result to all parties.—The first sir, would be the greater convenience for the emigrants, on account of the proximity of the United States to this country, which would make the voyage much shorter and easier. Secondly, the emigrants would find employment on lands already cultivated, which would enable them in less than a year to earn an honorable subsistence. 3dly, the benefit this country would derive by laborers coming from the United States, as the cultivators would increase in proportion to the quantity of such labor, which would necessarily augment the commerce of the United States with Hayti, both in imports and exports.

I have taken the liberty to send to Mr. J. Walker, merchant of your city, 2 hogsheads brown sugar, my own manufacture, marked C. C. with a request to ship them to you in my name. I beg you will accept of them, sir, and make such use of them as you think proper. It is a sample of the sugar which I manufacture. I hope the quality will improve in a short time. All the inhabitants of the Republic are endeavoring to improve the quality of their produce, with time and perseverance, they will no doubt succeed.

Nothing shall be wanting on my part, sir, to make my correspondence with you frequent and acceptable, for I hope it will eventuate in favor of humanity. On receiving coffee of the present crop, I will send you some.

Receive the assurance of my most distinguished consideration.

(Signed) J. P. BOYER.

CELESTIAL AMUSEMENTS.

Those who are fond of contemplating celestial phenomena, may be gratified by observing an occulation of Saturn by the moon on the 25th of this month, if the evening be clear. Occulations of Saturn afforded the best means of determining the quantity of refraction in the lunar atmosphere, and consequently, (if it be constituted like our own) its density and height—they are likewise more curious and pleasing than those of any of the other stars, when viewed through a telescope whose magnifying power is sufficiently great to make the planet's ring distinct.

Saturn's immersion will be about 46 degs. east of the south point of illumination, on the dark side of the moon ; and the emersion about 44 degs. west of the same point, on the enlightened side.

The moon's being about one day past the quadrature will be favorable to the distinctness of the occulation ; causing a space of 10 minutes of a degree between the point of immersion of Saturn, and the line of illumination on the disc of the moon ; at the instant of immersion the planet will disappear without any visible cause.

The south side of Saturn's ring will be turned towards the earth.

From the Baltimore Morning Chronicle.

The Legislature of Tennessee, have passed a string of resolutions, approving of the conduct of General Jackson in his management of the Seminole War, and have further instructed the Senators of that state how to vote at the ensuing session of Congress. We have seen with unfeigned regret the proceedings of that Legislature—they forestall the judgment of the Senate, and clearly if that body cannot in their capacity as judges act independently, a resolution of the Senate approving of the General's conduct, obtained by such means, is a severer censure on the general and an inculpation of his character, far beyond what a vote of condemnation would have been. All the other local legislatures on the continent inherit the same right as the Legislature of Tennessee. General Jackson, in consequence of his being a citizen, or a native, or an inhabitant of the last mentioned state, cannot claim to himself higher privileges from the Legislature of that state, when his conduct as a public officer is arraigned, than if he was a citizen or native, or a resident of any other state in the American confederacy. General Jackson is not an officer appointed by the government of Tennessee, nor responsible to them for his actions—he does not derive his commission from the governor of that state, nor is he paid for his services out of the funds of that state. He is appointed by the President, with the concurrence of the senate, to his present office—he is paid for his services out of the funds of the United States, and to the constitutional authority of the United States is he to be made responsible for his actions. We will suppose then that the Legislatures of the twenty-three United States, constituting the American Union, claim and exercise the same rights as those usurped by the government of Tennessee; some of which under the same influence demand the acquittal and others the condemnation of the general ; we will further suppose that the senators of each state conceive themselves implicitly bound to follow such instructions—where we ask is the trial—where the acquittal—where the condemnation ! The whole proceedings are thus converted into a solemn farce—a mockery of law—a phantasmagoria of justice—No, we think too highly of General Jackson to believe for a moment that he would deign to accept of an acquittal, where his judges were not in the strictest and most rigid sense of the term, free and independent. The wise founders of our constitution saw evil in the embroyo—they saw what dangers, what injustice might be done if congress should be compelled to act under the full influence of a popular and of a temporary excitement—they therefore prolonged the term of a senator's existence for six years, in the hope and belief that during that term of time, popular effervescence would subside and reason resume her sceptre—they interposed the senate as a sort of breakwater to the tempestuous surges of popular excitement.

We are sensible how prone such sentiments are to misrepresentations, and we are prepared to brave the effects ; we are not enemies to general Jackson ; on the contrary if it were in our power to add a single glimpse of verdure to his laurels, we should rejoice in an opportunity to do such an act. He is a man, in whose fame the muse of American history will hereafter delight to riot—he has been the theme of his country's eulogy, and he deserves, he richly deserves the gratitude of his country. But if we endeavor to vindicate the dignity, and the independence of the American senate, of the only remaining republic on the face of the creation, are we therefore to be considered the enemies of this officer—no ; justice walks, and is guided by the beams of her own lustre ; she beholds the hero of ORLEANS, not by the splendor elicited by his own acts—she does not know his name—she gazes on his features by the light of her own taper, and with a countenance serene as the sun's, she pronounces him either guilty or innocent. Mercy who follows after, may drop a tear, but the falling dew is not visible by the lamp of justice.

We will urge another consideration, and in our point of view, it is an all important one—it is this, naval or military splendor, is already too captivating a splendor, for the eyes of our countrymen to bear ; they have not yet been sufficiently accustomed to such spectacles ; it is a consuming novelty, that delights while it burns their fingers ; but here the question stops short—it is a principle, the violation of which is recorded in the blood of all other republics, that the military must be subservient to the civil power. Depart from this principle once ; let the civil power surrender their own rights ; let them be overawed, or in other words, let them no longer be free and independent ; let them bow with base succumbency to the sight of a laurel leaf, and the genius of our republic, is but treading in the bloody foot prints of the Roman republic. If general Jackson has erred, his country will forgive ; if a vote of censure is passed, it will not blast a single leaf of his laurels; but if from a false delicacy, or if from a legislative timidity, he is not responsible like every other servant of the republic, (and with all his concentrated radiance he is nothing more,) he is alike the defender, and the subverter of the liberties of his country.

RAPIDS OF TALLULAH.

During a late excursion through the northern frontier of Georgia I visited a number of natural curiosities, such as the falls of Ivy, in Seque, and the Rapids of Tallulah. This latter object is almost unknown to any person beyond its neighborhood—It however merits to be known and admired as one of the greatest curiosities in the United States. For the information of those who delight to know of the extraordinary exhibitions of nature, I will describe to you the rapids of Tallulah. This stream is by the Cherokee Indians called in some places Tarrurah—at other places Tallulah. It is the western branch of Tugulo river and the rapids are situated about 10 miles above its junction with Chattuga river, which is the eastern branch of Tugalo. Mr. Sturges has entered this river, in his Map of Georgia, by the name of Turoree, which is a very different pronunciation of the name from any I heard from its neighboring inhabitants. The rapids of Tallulah are about ten miles northeast of Habersham court house (or the place appointed for its temporary location)—at this spot the river passes through a range or ridge of mountains for somewhat more than a mile, forming for its bed an awful gulf, and for its bank stupendous fronts of solid rock, like those of the river Niagara just below its great cataract, and of the Gennessee river, below the fall of the stream, a few miles above Lake Ontario. Those banks of Tallulah are worn by its water in many places into caverns and grotesque figures, and often the sides are perpendicular and smooth beyond the means of art to imitate. Just at the head, and also at the foot of the Rapids, the banks of Tallulah river are of not more than ordinary height above common water. In the intermediate distance the height of the bank varies from 200 to 500 feet perpendicular.

The width of the river is from 100 feet. There are four perpendicular pitches of water from 51 to 80 feet, and a great many smaller cataracts of from 10 to 20 feet perpendicular pitch. I am confident that within the extent of the rapids, say a mile, the fall of water is not less than 300 or 350 feet. The distance and measure I have given are by estimation, for I had no means of accurate computation—but the distances stated, are the minimum estimate of the company who were with me, (consisting of four respectable and intelligent persons.) There are but two or three points by which a person can possibly descend to the bed of the river, and these are the tracks of small rivulets, emptying themselves into the west side, on the river and making several very steep precipices, which one may possibly pass by aid from the shrubbery that grows in the hollows : When arrived at the water's edge, to look out at the opening of the great cliffs above, is surprising, interesting, alarming!—These cliffs combined with the foaming, roaring, bounding, impetuous current of water, exhibit novelty, beauty and grandeur in the first impression on the mind of the visitor as he approaches so near to the edge of the precipice, as to get sight of the water, is alarming yet inviting ; awful, yet grand and sublime.

At the instant he views the current some hundred feet below him, he shrinks back in apprehension of his own destruction—still curious to view it more, he cautiously advances again, till by degrees he becomes so familiar to the scenery as to be dissatisfied from it.—At every step the visitor observes some new dress that adds new interest to the scenery. But there is no tinseled ornament on the banks of Tallulah. In a wild, uncultivated and barren country, no art has been introduced to deface this grand exhibition of nature—its neighborhood is inhabited only by ferocious beasts of prey, bears, wolves, and wild cats, and soaring eagles, and fairy people*—and has scarcely been visited until very lately, even by the adventurous huntsman and his hounds. Sculptured chasms and fronts, elevated portals, formidable stockades, impregnable fortresses, deep perpendicular cascades, and successive bounding currents; added to the several rainbows that continually shine (when the sun does) thro' the spray that rises from the falling water, and the variegated colors in the front of the rocky banks, of red, white, yellow and brown—and the small rivulets that pour down into the gulf from the mountains' top, give novelty, beauty, sublimity and awe, to the Rapids of Tallulah. Here the bare curiosity of a visitor may be satisfied in a week—but the intellectual appetite may be feasted for—an age.

The cataract of Niagara, and its great whirlpool and banks, is the only superior natural curiosity to the Rapids of Tallulah, that I have ever seen.—From the summit of a mountain on the west bank of the river near the lower fall, is the finest general view afforded on that side of the stream—but from several cliffs on the east bank may be had extensive and highly interesting general views of this enchanting scenery. One objection to this picturesque spot is the great prevalence of the severest

* In the face of the rock forming the banks or bounds of the river, are several caverns.—One of these in the east bank about 50 feet below the summit and about 300 feet from the water, in the perpendicular face of the rock, has a door or entrance apparently six feet high, and four wide, and near it a smaller aperture about two feet square. This spot is inaccessible, but its exterior is plainly in view from the opposite bank, & seems to be as neatly executed as art and the chissel could effect. Concerning this cavern is an interesting Indian tradition, that was related to us by those who had been speakers in their councils. "A tribe of little Indians, often visible, but intangible, made occasional visit to the neighboring Cherokees, and carried off their women and children. These marauders were attempted to be entrapped, but in vain; they were at length closely pursued and seen to take refuge in the cavern of which this was a door, where no effort of the captive's friends was ever able to relieve her, nor even again to get sight of her." This story or some other circumstance has made such an impression on the tribe, that no full blood Cherokee can be prevailed even to hunt near the Rapids of Tallulah.

kind of thunder storms--this I would suppose to prove the presence of some attractive mineral in the banks of the river. I saw great numbers of trees around the falls that had been splintered to pieces at different times by lightning. My companions were with me in one of these storms. The clouds came up almost instantaneously and unobserved, and unobserved, black and dreadful in its aspect. The "red artillery of Heaven" played rapidly and most tremendous. Quick as thought peal followed flash, and all was tempestuous--Proud pines and humble hollies bow'd submissive to the jarring element. The successive peals of thunder seemed to strike against the front of the rock that forms the banks of the river, and rebounding into opposite caverns and chasms seemed to repeat its own echo.

Extracts from a Law

Of the Corporation to provide for the speedy extinguishment of Fire, &c.

Sec 1. That every proprietor of any dwelling house, or store house within the limits of the corporation, shall, at his or her own expence, provide as many fire buckets, made of good and suitable leather, and containing at least two and a half gallons, as shall be equal in number to the stories in such house. Provided, That no proprietor shall, in any case be compelled to provide more than three buckets for one house. Every proprietor who shall neglect to procure the proper number of buckets in the manner herein directed, shall forfeit and pay one dollar per month for each bucket he shall so neglect to procure. The proprietors of all dwelling houses and store houses which shall hereafter be erected within the corporation, shall furnish the same with buckets in the manner before prescribed, within two months after such houses shall be occupied; or failing to do so, shall be subject to the penalties before mentioned.

2. Where the proprietor of any dwelling house or store house residing out of the limits of the corporation shall neglect to comply with the requisitions of this act, the occupier of such house shall within two months after coming to the possession thereof, procure the necessary buckets; and failing to provide the same, shall be subject to the like penalties as are in such case imposed on the proprietor.

5. It shall be the duty of the superintendent of police, once in six months at least, to visit the houses within the limits of the corporation to examine and take an account of the buckets belonging to such houses, and to report to the mayor the names of all persons who shall neglect to p ovide and keep the same, according to the requisitions of this act. pa. 31&32. Round Hill for Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from Daniel M'Pherson and wife to me, under date of the 30th of May, 1816, and for the purposes therein prescribed, I shall sell at public auction, on the premises, on FRIDAY, the 10th of December next, a tract of land, in the county of Fairfax, known by the name of lying on the stage or Colchester road, distant about 6 miles from Alexandria, and containing 148¼ acres, more or less;—reserving, however, to George Triplett his right to one moiety of the dwelling house and yard. This land has been very considerably improved by judicious cultivation, and there are now growing crops of small grain upon it.

Also, one other tract, being an equal undivided moiety of a tract of land in the said county, contiguous to the foregoing, and supposed to contain 25 acres 2 poles.

The terms of sale will be made known at the time and place of sale.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY on the 25th of April last, a man called NED, formerly the property of Mr. Fitzhugh, of Fairfax, and by him sold to Hepburn & Dundas. He had on when he went away an old country blue and white cloth coat, and kersey trowsers—his right hand in a sling, in consequence of the kick of a horse. Ned is a stupid looking fellow, and hesitates very much when he speaks. I will give fifty dollars if apprehended in the District, or the above reward for apprehending him out of the District, so that I get him again.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday, the 11th inst. a negro man, named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Dick Douglas. He is a small man about 5 feet 6 inches high, and is not a very black man. I purchased him from the estate of Edgar McCarty, esq. Cedar Grove, Fairfax county, Va. and it is likely that he may be lurking about that neighborhood or Colchester, as he has a wife at capt. Berry's of the latter place; or he may have gone to Loudoun county, as he has lived there in the neighborhood of Wm. McCarty and John McCarty, near Leesburg. He had on and took with him an old grey cloth coat and a brown do pantaloons of drab colored domestic cloth. He is much addicted to liquor, and is a coarse shoemaker. I will give 20 dollars if taken in the district of Columbia. Thirty dollars if taken in Fairfax county, and the above reward if apprehended in any other place, and secured so that I get him again; and reasonable charges if brought home. WM. B. STUART.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber living in King George's county Va. on Monday the 22nd March, a yellow man named about 22 years of age, his fore teeth wide apart, and cannot speak very quick—had on Virginia cloth clothes and carried off a shaggy great coat, he has a father named Peter Hall, who lives with the widow Morgan, at Oak Hill, Fauquier Co. and his grandfather, old Frederick Hall, is supposed to be living at Mr. Terrett's near Alexandria, and it is likely he may be lurking about there.—I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home. June 14 tf

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living near Aldie, Loudoun county, Virginia, on the night of the 11th inst. a negro man, who calls his name NED BURGES. He is a shrewd, intelligent negro, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high; 30 years of age, well made, active and polite Had on when he went away, a sky colored coat, and corded pantaloons. His right eye sore, apparently occasioned by a blow, the blood having settled around it. His ears have been pierced, and had green silk in them when he went away. It is expected he is now lurking about Fairfax court-house and Aldie. The above Ned Burges ran away on the night of the 25th of last Aug and was caught on the 11th inst. on the night of which he effected his elopement by drawing the staple to which he was fastened by the handle of a pan, while there was no person in the kitchen but himself. He was caught on the 11th inst. a few miles below Aldie, but I think it improbable that he has gone near the same place again. I will give 100 dollars if he is taken out of the county, and fifty if taken in the county, and secured so that I get him again, and all reasonable charges if brought home. GEO. GULICK.

P. S. It is supposed that the said negro has obtained papers of freedom, or a free pass, or something of the kind. G. G.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, asmooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.

Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.
